Writer Of Resort Article Wants To Know Answers

Here is one of the most honest and healthy discussions of the Jewish problems in the United States that I have ever read. Mrs. Sawyer, whose article on New England resorts, appeared in this paper some weeks ago, is honestly disturbed. I am writing an editorial on her letter, perhaps you readers have a different reaction. I would be interested to hear from you.—THE EDITOR.

By SARAH ZESERSON

I'm killing two birds with one stone in this informal note answering Mr. Katz and giving you a few reactions as to the raison d'être of my attitude—which has turned in the past year from one of passive disinterest in being Jewish to one of puzzled brow-wrinkling. (I haven't reached the state of active participation as yet.)

Yes, you may inform Mr. Katz that all the experiences in my article were true, and may be duplicated by many of my friends. And even a few days' old issue of The Boston Transcript, one of our best papers, contains vacation ads which say "Select Christian Clientele," etc., etc. And a few weeks ago a friend of ours, a very unassuming young fellow, having been charged $50 over on his luncheon bill by a native of one of the New England hills, quietly mentioned this fact to the aforementioned native—only to be met with the well-known—"Dirty Jew, here's your quarter!"

On the other hand, (and here's the sort of thing Mr. Katz probably meant)—and thank heavens for it—my husband and I are at present spending our vacation in a lovely little hotel 'way up in the Vermont mountains, where we are being accepted without reservation and where we are having a grand time. Now here's where the rub comes in—we haven't mentioned the fact that we are Jews to our newly acquired friends. To save my conscience, I believe they know it. To tell the plain, bare truth—we wanted to be vacationists and not HURT sociologists!! as we were last summer (if you remember my article.) This passive or to some, perhaps, cowardly stand of ours boils down to the big question which seems to be facing myself and most of my Jewish friends: Shall we retain our ghetto habits by merely sticking entirely on Jewish fly paper, so to speak—by living with Jews only, in Jewish neighborhoods, in Jewish environments of all types (as I did from babyhood through grade school through college, etc.)—and in keeping with this—avoiding Jewish sore spots by never rubbing shoulders with the non-Jewish world—or if we do meet this non-Jewish world, shall we be negative about our Judaism, (as I am at this moment—here?) Shall we try to be innocuous about it, and smooth things out when our non-Jewish Righteous Guy says "Well—many Jews are very radical; a lot of 'em are Communists; they overdo this Civil Liberties stuff" etc. and etc. Shall we deny such implications, shall we make excuses for our racial group, in fact—what shall we do?

Or shall we take another road, and be active (and to be active means to be belligerent)? Shall we stand by the charges of radicalism, etc. by maintaining firmly that

Admit Jews For Riots

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—James Malcolm, former colonial official, declared in a letter to The Times that the only way to disillusion the enemies of the British Empire hoping to prevent a British-Jewish bloc in the Near East was to restore the absorptive capacity principle of Palestine immigration and, immediately after the return of the Palestine Partition Commission, to send a number of Jewish immigrants to Palestine for every murder and act of sabotage by terrorists.

Hadassah Fights Partition Anew

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—In a memorandum forwarded to Sir John Woodhead, chairman of the Palestine Partition Commission which has just completed a 14-week investigation in Jerusalem, Hadassah reiterates its opposition to the proposed division of the Holy Land on the ground that it would not "bring about peace between the Arab and Jewish peoples."

The memorandum was sent to the Jewish Agency in London for transmission to Sir John.

Pointing out that it had been possible to secure American Jewish support for Palestine "only because of the assumption of the mandate by Great Britain and be thousands" of European Jews. American public in Great Britain's pledge," the document contends that the "partition scheme with its consequent drastic limitations of land available for close settlement will, if carried out, frustrate the hope of redemption of hundreds of thousands" of European Jews.

if radicalism means justice, tolerance, and peace—Jews are radical? Shall we actively fight attacks against Jews in general by taking a personal stand? Shall I perhaps spoil my vacation by carrying out—"Yes, I'm a Jew—go do something about it?" I Don't Know The Answer!

The former attitude keeps us (me) temporarily secure and safe, the latter attitude may get us into hot water but with it (I'll have to build mine up) we'll probably emerge more unified, stronger and healthier.

To come back to Mr. Katz's challenge. Some of the letters which the Yankee Magazine received about my article—he might be interested in. One lady says—"Jews

Michigan Catholic Paper Hits Coughlin For Protocol Story

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

DETROIT—The Michigan Catholic, organ of the Detroit Catholic Archdiocese, declared in an editorial this week that Catholics who "indulge in speeches or writings which in fact tend to arouse feelings against the Jews as a race" are "totally out of harmony with the Holy Father's leadership." The editorial was seen as a veiled attack on Father Coughlin's thinly-disguised efforts to stir prejudice against Jews through use of the spurious "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" in his organ, Social Justice.

REFUGEE IS SUICIDE

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—Ludwig Hecht, 28-year-old Jewish refugee from Germany, committed suicide by taking gas last week, leaving a note that "everything's wrong." Hecht, who had been manager of his parents' department store in Berlin until it was "Aryanized," came here with a brother about a year ago. The brother, Meinhard, suffered a nervous breakdown the week before under pressure of the family's Nazi-engendered difficulties.

MUSICIAN DIES

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

are all right—but I wouldn't live near a colony of them!" Another letter says "they overrun our hotels". However, in fairness, I must state that there were many very inspiring and understanding letters. In fact the heartening and encouraging thing about the whole article is the fact that it was published by a genuine New England periodical, as true as its name—YANKEE—which really proves that Mr. Katz's experiences are really more characteristic than mine—which is as it should be.

But to continue chewing on the same piece of rag, what can my reaction be and what can I do about the following? (when I say "I," I mean You, too.) These experiences, if not universal, are at least common to many of us:—

1. A very intelligent Christian

Parents Remove Children From Camp As Expose Continues

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

BOSTON—Continuing his expose of the "baptism camp" operated by Miss May E. Hatch at Manomet, Mass., Carl Alpert, associate editor of the Boston Jewish Advocate, revealed last week that Jewish parents have removed seven young girls from the camp and were preparing to take home eight others who remained. Except for two girls who had attended the camp three years, all admitted they had been instructed in Christianity during their entire stay.

It is estimated that more than 150 Jewish girls have come under Miss Hatch's influence during the six years she had operated her camp. Action of the parents followed an article by Mr. Alpert the previous week, in which he revealed that four Jewish girls had been baptized at the camp without their parents' knowledge.

Worried By Conversions

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

BUDAPEST—Alarmed by the growing number of conversions among Jews, responsible Jewish quarters were this week considering the advisability of convening a congress after the High Holidays in order to create an "Organization of Self-Protection" modelled after the Central Union of Jews in Germany.

Soprano Is Exile

LOTTE LEHMAN

NEW YORK—Lotte Lehman, German-Jewish Metropolitan Opera soprano, returned to America last week as an immigrant on the German quota with the intention of becoming a citizen. She was accompanied by her three stepsons, who had escaped from Austria on May 5 after being forbidden by the Nazis to leave the country because their mother was Jewish.

Sir Landon Ronald, Composer, Dead

LONDON—Sir Landon Ronald, distinguished British-Jewish composer, conductor and music critic, died last week at the age of 65 in his London home after a long illness.

Since 1910 Sir Landon had been principal of the Guildhall School of Music, and since 1908 conductor of the famous Royal Albert Hall Orchestra (now in the New Symphony). As conductor he led the chief symphony orchestras of the world, making several command appearances before Queen Victoria, and coming to America in 1894 as conductor with Madame Melba. He was knighted in 1922.

friend, the sort who is definitely with us, says "But of course there should be a Jewish quota at Harvard". Geh tuh ihr vos!

2. Having recently married, we had the delightful experience of looking for an apartment in some of Boston's suburbs. The number which do not take Jews is far from small.

3. There is a German Verein right near my house, in which some pretty significant activities seem to be carried on.

4. There is a Jewish drug store that I know of in a Goyishe suburb, where some kids hang out; imagine the proprietor's delight when one day he saw on the lamppost in front of his store—some huge swastikas and skulls and crossbones! Just fun BUT.

5. The growing anti-Semitic feeling even in American Catholic Weeklies. Do you ever pick up a copy of America? There are some lovely subtle thrusts there—and this from our so-called Minority Brethren?

Honestly I don't go around with a magnifying glass looking for trouble—but trouble certainly is here, and how!

Sincerely,

SARA ZESERSON SAWYER.

P. S.—If you print this as an article—don't forget to let me know. Thanks.

Pittsburgh Peace Group Permanent; Get Constitution

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK.—The formation of a "General Council for Jewish Rights, of the American Jewish Committee, the American Jewish Congress, the B'nai Brith and the Jewish Labor Committee," to co-ordinate the activities of these organizations "that bear specifically on the safeguarding of the equal rights of Jews" was announced this week by Edgar J. Kaufmann, its temporary chairman, following an all day meeting held at the Hotel St. Regis and attended by representatives of the four bodies.

The formation of the "General Council for Jewish Rights" is in accordance with a decision reached at Pittsburgh on June 13th at a conference of the representatives of the four organizations.

This week's meeting adopted a constitution for the new organization, governing its scope and structure.

Under the terms of the constitution, "The Council shall consider and act upon proposals and plans for the safeguarding of equal rights of Jews here and abroad." A two thirds affirmative vote of the total membership of the council makes its decisions "binding upon the organizations and groups included within its membership." It is, however, precluded from making decisions on matters "that involve an encroachment upon the racial, national, religious or economic philosophies of the constituent organizations."

The Council, for the present, is "to consist of five representatives named for a term of one year by and from each of the constituent organizations."

Provision is made in the constitution for the admission of additional groups upon "an affirmative vote of not less than five sixths of the total membership of the Council."

The "General Council" is required to meet at least once every three months, but may be summoned into special session either at the call of the Chairman, or at the written request of seven representatives. In view of the national character of the body, it was decided that no more than two regular meetings during any twelve month period may be held in New York City.

Recommendations for the program of action to be undertaken by the "General Council for Jewish Rights" will be submitted to its next meeting, scheduled for September 19 in New York City.

This sub-committee will also study and make recommendations as to the relations to be established with Jewish communities throughout the United States with a view to securing their co-operation in the program of the Council.

At the September session it is proposed to elect the permanent officers of the Council for a period of one year. These will comprise a chairman, a vice-chairman, a treasurer and a secretary. A special committee was named to consider and recommend nominations for these posts.

Dorothy Thompson Writes Refugee Book

NEW YORK—"Refugees: Anarchy or Organization?" is the title of a 125-page book by Dorothy Thompson, N. Y. Herald-Tribune columnist, published here this week by Random House.

In the book Miss Thompson proposes establishment of an international resettlement company, along strictly commercial lines, which would purchase at half face value blocked marks from prospective German emigrants and businessmen with frozen funds in Germany. The resettlement company, with the blocked currency at its disposal, could negotiate with various governments for colonization of refugees who would be welcome since they would bring with them capital and equipment purchased in Germany.

Harbin Jews Leave As Kidnappings Stir City; 9,000 Move

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

HABIN, Manchukuo—The Jewish community here is in a state of panic as a result of continuous kidnapping of prominent Jews by Russian White Guardists. The latest victim of a systematic campaign of terrorism through abduction is Isaac Klurman, a merchant.

The kidnapers extort ransom from relatives, getting large sums, but the victims are seldom returned alive. Among Jews recently kidnapped and slain are the following: Meire Kopman and Mendel Leonson, merchants; Mark Abramovitch, a student, and Simon Kaspe, a musician.

White Guard terrorism, which has gone virtually unchecked for a number of years, has compelled thousands of Jews to leave Harbin. Several years ago, the Jewish community here numbered 12,000. Today there are but 3,000 Jews left.

The authorities recently took some measures to curb the more violent aspects of the terror campaign against the Jews. A White Guardist newspaper which incited to programs was suppressed.

Am I tired? Looking for my school wardrobe ceases to be a joke; Yet I must have attractive looking apparel. Tired or not I am going to take you with me while scouting the shops. So hold on, here we go.

To make any outfit look really complete one must have attractive looking gloves. Under the splendid management of Rebecca Simon, at RINK'S GLOVE DEPT., I found just the things I needed, a pair for school and street. Something that struck my eye right away was the half-half velour suede and leather combination. It has all the appearance of suede. Then too there are the Persian fabric trim and zipper styles that are most appealing to the eye. These gloves can be purchased in the following colors, black, brown, green, wine, and burnt-earth. The sum of $1.00 can buy any of these lovely styled gloves. For gloves with that "umph". I go to RINK'S GLOVE DEPT. — See you there.

Are you starting to school this fall? If so, by all means stop in at HILLMAN'S and see their new fall school dresses. I have found several costumes for school which I know will be the envy of most of the girls. These frocks may be purchased at most reasonable prices. Here's a tip when you select your school clothes. By all means include at least one of these perky little velveteens. They are just the thing for any school occasion. You know that HILLMAN'S is one of our exclusive shops and to show the HILLMAN label on any of my outfits, makes me feel mighty proud.

Kirshbaum Children Arrange Summer Carnival, Aug. 30

A handkerchief which walks across the stage, dances and in other ways responds to the commands of an 11-year-old magician, a 14-year-old "escape artist" who extricates herself with ease from numerous chains and padlocks, and a magical doll house are among the features which will amaze the audience of the Summer Carnival at 7:15 P. M. Tuesday, August 30, at Kirshbaum Center.

The program will open with a waterfront exhibition of swimming, diving and life saving by the youngsters. A toy circus has been constructed by the boys' handcraft class and the children of the story-hour group are preparing two playlets as their contribution to the program. Construction work for the feats of magic was done by the boys and girls in the craft classes. Examples of handcraft work completed this summer will be on display and the children are at work on a novel exhibit which will depict the weekly trips made to points of interest in the city.

Sholem Aleichem! ! ! to you and you and you, and look at what I've got for you this week. . . .

Surprise parties sure have been in order this summer and the latest was one given for Lil Winter last Saturday nite at her home. Some of the mob helping Lil celebrate the joyous occasion were Rose Weinstein, who I hear was the life of the party, with Joe Simpkins of Philadelphia, blond Lil Klezmer (that cute lil' sompin') with Bernie Arshop, Morry Epstein, the muscle man, good ole' Happy Dorman, Herb Larman, the Tzuckers from Lafayette, Jessie Levin, the Chaplick sisters, Ruthie and Lil, Bob (speedboat) Kroot, and Bob (100%) Pallman from the looks of Lil's house Sunday morning everybody must have had a h—eavenly good time—

Thumbing through my big orange book (ha, ha, you thought I was going to say little black book) I recall seeing some of our rounders enjoying themselves Sunday. Bicycling out to Little America in the morning who do you think I saw but Stan Larman and Harry Bolotin working up a nice sweat bowling. Boy, are my eyes still smarting, Stan, where oh where, did you get those tomato red britches. I'll bet Ab Schwartz helped you pick 'em out. . . . Then out to Northern Beach I pedaled, still on my bicycle, and I sure hit it right cause I saw Senator and Mrs. Jacob Weiss and children playing around in the water. . . . I don't know yet who had the most fun. Also, there were Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Weiss, (that Mr. and Mrs. sure sounds swell, doesn't it, Ez?), and Ruth and Harold Weil. . . . Sunday night after wasting time finding a parking space for my bicycle I legged it over to the Palace and there I spied Diana Cohen and Marv (Adonis) Farber, Morry Gold, and Sally (what a gal) Peltz. Gee, wasn't Bob Taylor just too cute for words, Sally?

By the way, Josh (Gov. Murphy) Fineberg, something has been bothering me all week and that is, how is your Bubba, and her smetena farm getting along? Wednesday noon saw Betty Farber and Doris (Elizabeth) Gunter walking across Wash. St., arm in arm, evidently discussing the grand and glorious time Betty had at the Edgewater.

Isadore Greenberg tells us that he received a letter last week from Seymour Greenberg (tennis champ, no relation) stating he expects to make a try for the Indiana state tennis championship in 1939. . . . He comes from a tennis playing family, and says he is a chip off the old block.

Informed circles tell me Indianapolis will be host in the near future to the largest Jewish meeting this city has ever had and that it will attract more famous Jews than any meeting has ever drawn here. . . . Apologies to Mrs. Bailey Brown for making a mistake in the Hadassah story last week, and printing Mrs. Henry Brown instead. Mrs. Bailey Brown was one of its organizers of Hadassah and was its first president. . . .

We understand that Rabbi and Mrs. M. Goldblatt ran up against their first local problem trying to find housing for their family this week, and eventually found one to suit their taste at Twenty-ninth and Talbott. Good luck to you and your family, and we are sure you will be very very happy here.

And so my friends, until your flat foot Floogie is back again next week with bigger and better word pictures of what is going on in these here town, I'll be seein' you and I do, ah dew, and I due mean, adieu.

The South Side Baking Co. is represented at the Roller Derby by Team No. 18, composed of Johnny Rosasco, captain of the White Shirts, and Margie Richards.

The company is building a new addition which will double the capacity of its plant. This step was made necessary through the greatly increased demand for its Real Rye, Sliced White Poppy Seed Bread, and other South Side Baking Co. products.

Consul Aide Drilling Nazi Youths Protested

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
ST. LOUIS—The Council for American Democracy charged in a letter to Secretary of State Cordell Hull this week that Eberhard von Blankenhagen, secretary of the German Consulate here, was acting as drillmaster at a nearby Nazi camp. The Council asked for a ruling on whether von Blankenhagen's permit to enter the United States as a Consular official allowed him to engage in such activities and, if it did not, whether the permit could be revoked.

Hebrew School Classes Resume After Long Summer Vacation

The Hebrew schools, which have children of school age are open to register them as soon as possible.

Both the Rabbi Neustadt Talmud Torah and the Issac Marks Branch, meeting at the Kirshbaum Center, will reopen, and classes will meet on the same days and hours as before the vacation.

Elaborate plans for a Hebrew school picnic are now being made by special committees appointed by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Talmud Torah and the Board of the Jewish Educational Association. The picnic has been set for Thursday, September 1, at Riverside park.

New classes will open at both schools about the middle of September. These classes will be for children who have had no previous Hebrew education. Parents having N.B.C. employees may go home if mercury hits 90 degrees. Workers now watch Fahrenheit instead of Telechron.

ART NOTE: Fat Boy Goering sports a life-sized figure of his first wife's head on his parlor table. . . . Ex-President Hoover gasped when he saw it during that famous visit of his not long ago. . . . It's made of solid gold. . . . And is decorated with a genuine pearl necklace and ruby earrings.

SUCCESS STORY: His name is Sol Shultz. . . . He's in his early thirties. . . . Holds the important post of chief electrical engineer of the New York Port Authority. . . . He drafted, several years ago, a report for President Roosevelt on his pet St. Lawrence River waterways project that attracted wide attention. . . . For months the Senate Committee investigating TVA has been after him to undertake the job of chief cost finding engineer for the investigation. . . . He finally accepted the task, a monumental one which may well decide the fate of the entire TVA, taking a 6-month leave of absence from his regular job. . . . (His appointment had not yet been officially announced at this writing). . . . He's to get $7,500 plus expenses for the assignment.

STATISTICAL NOTE: The Daily Express of London recently carried an interview with a Rev. J. Ingles, described as Baptist chaplain at Sing Sing. . . . In which he is quoted as saying that where once Jewish prisoners could be counted on his fingers, now there were 700 Jews housed in the famed New York Big House. Warden Lawes informs us, however, that the Jewish population at his institution is but 277 out of a total of 2,771, as of July 1, 1938. . . . Interesting to note, too, that only one Mormon and one Hindu are cooped up in Big-House-on-the-Hudson. . . .

CHEMICAL NOTE: Commenting on the fact that all Viennese but Jews are being given gas masks by the Government, a London paper aptly remarks: "But as Nazism to them is just one long gas attack they'd probably be able to stand up to minor evils, like mustard gas, unaided."

MISH-MASH: Artist Elias Grossman has a pix showing himself, the King and Queen of Italy and Dave Kleinlerer, ousted JTA Rome correspondent, sitting together in a theatre party in Pompei several years ago. . . . To which they had gone at the suggestion of Premier Mussolini. . . . Chamberlain, the Warsaw wits have it, is the chief exponent of havlagah in England toward Hitler. . . . A "havlagationist" movement is how they're describing British policy toward Germany. . . . Fulvio Suvich, Italian Ambassador to Washington, is not Jewish/although Ludwig Lore says he is in an article in The Nation. . . . Young Judea should be interested to learn that the Catholic news service described it as the "largest Jewish children's organization in the United States." . . . Lou Rocker ought to love that. . . . The City Editor of the China Press, a Shanghai newspaper, is a chap named Mark J. Ginsbourg. . . .

Boris Morros Finds Film Music Very Much Worthwhile; Large Audience Agrees

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD — Boris Morros, musical director at Paramount, instituted an unusual experiment in the Hollywood (Symphonies under the Stars) Bowl. He presented a whole program of film music consisting of scores from pictures and orchestral pieces written by movie composers.

The most scintillating star of the evening, however, was Lewis Browne. In an introductory speech, he explained: "This program may be 'colossal' . . . 'stupendous' . . . and perhaps . . . slightly 'terrific.' But it is also significant. We all know there is music with movies, but we seldom hear it. The sense of sight . . . and . . . hm . . . the sense of smell, too . . . are so busy that the sense of hearing has no chance at all. Boris Morros believes that music written for the screen is of sufficiently high calibre to stand on its own merits as concert pieces. Just as in former times, compositions created for ballets eventually found their way into orchestral repertoire. We are so accustomed to thinking of Art for Art's sake that it is very difficult for us to think of Art for Paramount's sake . . . let alone for Republic. However, this is a test . . . and you, the audience, are the judge." Browne finished amidst hearty applause.

For a variety of careers . . . there's nothing like starting as a columnist. Winchell did it . . . became an actor and broadcaster. Skolsky did it . . . then tried a little cinemogling . . . a little etherizing . . . and back to the old grind . . . a column a day keeps the landlord away. Along comes Mark Hellinger . . . fresh with syndicate ink . . . tries screaming-scribbling . . . and wakes up to find himself a producer. Louis Sobel is in town . . . goodness knows what will happen to him.

Sammy Cohen rises to remark that "Noah was the first guy to introduce double features."

Of all things . . . Harpo is sponsoring an exhibition tour of four original Gainsboroughs . . . proceeds to go to charity. And Groucho is being sought to write six articles for Colliers on what a Senator should be and do. Hm . . . Hm . . . such highbrow stuff!

Often we have been asked whether Claire Trevor is an Israel-light. Her recent marriage in All Saints Church revealed her real name as Wemlinger . . . and should settle the question in the negative.

Looks like Maxie Rosenbloom is in training to supersede Herr Goldwyn. So many scenes were cut out of "Wooden Anchors", it was feared that perhaps Maxie's mug wouldn't show at all. "They can't do that," defied Maxie, "I'm the synopsis!"

Breathless moments: Ben Blue had a taffy-making-a-la-Mack-Sennett scene to do . . . worked until very late. All went well while the taffy was thwacked about, but when he merged into the cool night, his clothes, face, and hair suddenly hardened terrifyingly. Police were called to crack him out of his taffy shell.

The Editor's Chair,

I quote you now from a daily newspaper column "Line on Liners", written by Louis Slung, a very close friend of mine, whom I once was able to persuade to matriculate at the University of North Carolina, and who now, after many experiences including a sailor's job on the route through the Panama canal, is one of the most accomplished writers on the staff of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle. While the regular ship news reporter was on vacation, Louis substituted, and maybe you'll agree with me about his prose-writing ability.

"The English were wonderful to me, wonderful!

"You know I went over there hoping to raise $100,000 but we collected that much in three days, so I figured we should keep on going. And we sure did go some. Stopped in London only a few days and then traveled to Sheffield, Manchester, Leeds and Glasgow—oh, yes, and Newcastle, raising $550,000.

"Why, in Manchester alone, at a luncheon, dinner and tea, we raised $175,000. Glasgow gave us $60,000."

Cantor is obviously a very emotional person and his face at this point twitched convulsively from the stress of inner feelings as he told about "one of the most marvelous things that happened on my trip."

It seems that at one of the dinners a woman approached him, took a diamond ring off her finger and dropped it in his hand with the comment, "Auction this off, you need it more than I do."

"The chief bidders were her husband and another man," resumed Cantor. "Finally, the other man bought it and gave the ring back to the woman, so the husband said the least he could do was to contribute his highest bid. We raised about $7,500 just from this."

Another of the "more wonderful" incidents was the single performance given in London with Beatrice Lillie, Gracie Fields, Lupino Lane and other British stars donating their services in addition to individual cash sums. The theater had given Eddie a $25,000 gate guarantee and an audience of 4,500 contributed an additional $20,000.

The $550,000, he said, would take care of 1,000 children and that attempts would be made to settle the children in this country, England, Australia or South America if conditions in Palestine grew worse.

"And if those governments won't open their doors to these unhappy youngsters, I suggest that the doors of the churches be closed. They would be preaching lies and not the teachings of Christ. The precept is not 'Love thy neighbor up to a certain extent,' as some people seem to believe."

Is There An Answer?

WHO knows the answer for Sara Zeserson's quandry? Shall she ignore her Jewishness and thus enjoy insofar as is possible a normal existence, or shall she proclaim in a fighting missionary spirit that she is Jewish and is proud of it?

The same question has presented itself to every honest reader of this paper. If you, reader, have chosen the more honorable one it probably was less a matter of courage than of environment.

However, the thinkers in the American Jewish scene, having been beset with the same perplexity, have laid out a course for a sane Jewish life, which is at once very consistent with living in the United States, and at the same time living a healthy Jewish life.

Who can say that a Jew who attends services, who knows how Micah and Isaiah preached mercy with charity, who abides by the ethical dictates of Judaism, is less an American than the Cabots or the Lodges? No. The truth is that the better the Jew, the better the American.

If there are non-Jews who by their clausus and their refusal to associate with Jews make Jewish life difficult, then is it not true that they substantially are not so preferable as friends, and that associations or acquaintance with them would not indicate any mutual advancement. And is it to any advantage to hide one's Jewishness, so that these same superficial friends are deceived into believing one is a Jew? The answer is logically and forcefully, no.

Fundamentally Mordecai M. Kaplan in his book, "Judaism As A Civilization", has answered Miss Zeserson. Forthright and clear, the book sets forth the theory that Jewish life in America must be organized on a firm Jewish foundation, if Jewish life is to prosper and continue as Jewish. Dr. Kaplan foresaw a trend. That trend has already nurtured into a real movement into Jewish communal organization. Indianapolis this fall will put into practice the city-wide Jewish organization that Dr. Kaplan suggested. Louisville has sidestepped the issues and accepting a lazy drifting for a determined courage, is content to let the situation meander and steadily grow worse.

The answer is a strong Jewishness. It is a matter of self respect; it is a matter of a healthy existence. It is a matter, in truth, of survival.

Current Comment

Otto Strasser, brother of the slain Gregor Strasser, tells an interviewer for England's "Time And Tide" That a Hitler War is inevitable. In his methods, Hitler is far more elastic than a dictator usually is. His secret is the secret of the Finnish bath which runs so cold at one moment and so hot the next, that finally the patient is unable to tell whether it is running hot or cold. This is the method he has used with such success on his own people and is the method he is using today. . . . I think that war is inevitable. Hitler will not renounce his aims on the one hand, nor can I imagine on the other, that the Czechoslovak people will surrender its freedom without a fight nor France stand by while its European significance is destroyed; nor England leave undefended, the road to Baghdad. If, on the other hand, these last three conditions were to be fulfilled, Hitler would stand six months from now on the shores of the Black Sea. Some people, I suppose, would call that peace.

Rabbi Louis I. Newman Discusses Jews At Resorts In His Column "Telling It In Gath"—The Jewish conscience is being acutely sensitized during these summer weeks by virtue of the encounter of Jews with the problem of hotel and resort Rishus. Jews everywhere who desire to avoid the irritation of being excluded make efforts to discover hotels where they are not unwelcome. They do not wish to place their heads in a noose of insults. But it is not easy to find places where Jews are accepted as individuals, and not classified as "undesirables." It is surprising that Jews have not organized adult summer camps comparable to those available for the Jewish youngsters. Despite the presence of nearly three million Jews on the Atlantic seaboard and their desire to have the best for themselves by way of recreation and amusement, there is an insufficient number of attractive amusement places for Jewish grown-ups. To be sure, the gregarious instincts of Jews impel them to rush to one well-recommended place, and then to desert it the following season. Word has been spread through the East regarding a new hotel—once controlled by Gentiles—and now under the management of Jews who are known to the clientele of Eastern Jews who attend their winter resort in Florida. It will be interesting to observe the fate of this hotel enterprise in succeeding years. Jews are very finicky; they like the best in service and accommodations, and they are oftentimes over-demanding and obnoxious: There is much truth in the complaint of the negro porter who had not received his tip from his Jewish clients until the very end of the trip: I know now that the Jews didn't crucify our Lord; they just worried him to death." Jews, however, must not delude themselves into believing that they are any better or any worse as summer patrons. They are entirely human in their reactions, and yet a recognition of this fact should not move them to be ungenerous, mean-spirited, or over-critical. It is still necessary for Jews, even among their fellow-Jews, to act with patience, courtesy, and good-will.

That Jews forget themselves at times, however, is certain. At a lake beach where about forty persons were assembled, a boatload of Jewish young people arrived. After a few minutes of swimming, one of the group brought forth a cake of soap and proceeded industriously to soap her companions, as if it were a private family bath. It was amusing, but decidedly annoying, perhaps more to other Jews there, than to the Gentiles. Jews should not act "under wraps," but they should be careful to show good taste and good breeding wherever they are.

Wants Papers To Send B'nai B'rith Editorial To Grand Lodge

To the Editor: In reading your editorial in the issue of July 29, "Why Couldn't The B'nai B'rith Be Tolerant", I must compliment your paper for this splendid editorial.

If we had a few more Jewish papers of your type who would take of their time and give it towards the Jewish cause, we would all probably have a more genuine Jewish atmosphere.

I happened to be a delegate to the convention referred to and at the banquet I asked the waitress for some other food besides meat. The reply that I received was the same as you stated in your article, namely, "Eat that or don't eat anything." However, I happened to have had a very good friend in Duluth, who after having been told of my desire to eat kosher food, arranged to secure some fish for me. It was my understanding that at the banquet, there were several more people, who like myself, desired to eat kosher food, but unfortunately had no friends to come to, and therefore were forced to eat elsewhere.

I will ask you to please mail me several copies of your editorial, as I would like to mail same to the offices of the Grand Lodge.

Called Jew By Nazis, Leader Sees No Shame

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

PRAHA—Writing in the magazine Zlin this week, J. S. Bata, shoe magnate, denied Nazi contentions that he is a Jew but added that he "would not be ashamed to be a Jew despite all the attacks of the German press. I would feel equal with all people."

Charging the German press was continually calling him Jewish in order to damage his business, Mr. Bata revealed he had sent newspapers in the Reich affidavits proving his family had been Catholic since 1576 and had also made personal representations to that effect while in Berlin.

"Really," he declared in the magazine article, "I do not care about those false statements. I am only curious to see whether there is still some one in Germany today with the courage to place truth above lying propaganda."
